IS THERE ONE?

Is there one little heart you think will be sad on Christmas night? Is there one little child who will be forgotten? You know the most delicate of all the creations of nature is the heart of a child. It is the most easily affected by the joy or sorrow of life. A word will make it quicken in gladness; a frown will chill it to the depths of despair. On Christmas day, the hearts of all children are quickened by the slightest appreciation we can show them; it is saddened by the neglect of a cold world. Do you know of a child whose heart may be saddened by neglect on the day we have devoted to the children of the world? There are those to whom Christmas will come with enough sadness anyway as they see others showered with gifts and gladness. Even a small present will lighten the hearts of those. Is there someone to whom you can carry a little joy, a little gladness, before the day has passed and night has closed the door of happiness for them for another year?

Settlement With the Heirs of Clifton C. Clement Reported

(By Associated Press)

Bridgewater, Dec. 18—Settlement between Dartmouth and relatives of Orfon C. Clement, who in his unsigned will, left his entire estate of $150,000 to the college, was announced here today by Miss Jennie Converse, the daughter of one of the claimants.The college agreed to accept one-half of the estate she said. Clement died on March 18th in West Corinth, Vt.

KITTERY

Kittery, Dec. 18.—Heavy storms did not dampen the interest of boys and girls of the Second M. E. Church Sunday School, the attendance numbering 85. The rewards were given by the superintendent, Harvey Grant, to all who had been on time for six successive Sundays.

Mrs. William Frost, formerly of Kittery, now residing in Portsmouth, is reported as being ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Foss Hayes of Portsmouth passed Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prime of Bridge street.

Walter Staples passed the week-end with his family in town.

Miss Dorothy Williams, student at Bates College, is passing the Christmas recess at her home on Love lane.

Miss Carrie Dame is very ill at the home of Mrs. Abbie Cole, Bridge street.

Mrs. Gertrude Mitchell and son, Horace, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Wildes, Wentworth street.

Phillip Woods, student at the University of Maine, at Orono, is passing the Christmas vacation at his home at the Intervene.

Regular meeting of the Eastern Star Wednesday evening. They will also enjoy a Christmas tree. Each member is asked to bring an unmarked package for same, also sandwiches.

STILL EXPLODES— TWO ARE DEAD

(By Associated Press)

Pittsburg, Dec. 18.—Fire, believed to have been started when a still exploded, caused the death of two men at Milltown today. Members of a Union Railway Freight train crew discovered the blaze. They stopped the train and tried to extinguish the fire. When the fire was out the railway men searched the ruins. They found the body of George Petrowicz lying over the copper worm of the still. John Bunko also was burned to death.

Two Battered Lifeboats of Reliance Found, But That is All So Far in Lake Disaster

(By Associated Press)

New Saint Marie, Mich., Dec. 18.—The tug Gren, searching for the 27 persons missing since the tug Reliance was wrecked off Lizzards Island last Wednesday, reached the scene of the wreck this morning and found two battered life boats, but no signs of the missing persons. Some of the passengers were recovering from exposure after drifting in small lifeboats to the Canadian mainland. Mr. and Mrs. John Harter Cook were reported in a serious condition at the railway station of the Algoma Central Railroad. Included among the missing is Captain Williams of the Reliance.

KANSAS IS TO BOYCOT K. K. K.

White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, Dec. 18.—Kansas will not drive the Ku Klux Klan from the state by force, but will expell by refusing to permit them to do business within the state boundary.

Governor Allen declared in an address prepared for delivery today before the Governor's Conference: The writ being sought in the Kansas Supreme Court would make to disappear the "Blazing cross and the pasture party." Masked men go through fantastic ceremonies in a pasture and adjoining field and terrorize the entire neighborhood.

The executives of fifteen states, attending the fourteenth annual Governor's Conference, intend to leave for Washington for a luncheon conference with President Harding at the White House Monday. The conference will presumably be about prohibition enforcement.

PENN. RAISES ITS EMBARGO

The New Hampshire Manufacturers' Association has been advised by the Pennsylvania Railroad that they have raised their embargo for a period of three days, effective Friday, Dec. 15, Saturday the 16 and Monday the 18. Manufacturers who have shipments originating on the Pennsylvania lines which have been held up by these embargoes, may immediately notify their shippers that their consignments may be shipped on any of the days mentioned.

The policy of the Pennsylvania System is the non-issuance of permits at any time and have arranged this respite to relieve the manufacturers and allow shipments to be made from any point on their system covering the period mentioned.

This does not affect any embargoes that may be in effect on other lines. This subject must be very carefully watched and closely considered with the agent of the Boston and Maine Railroad in your city.

Should any further information be necessary concerning this, the manufacturers may get in touch with J. J. Cummings, Transportation Engineer of the New Hampshire Manufacturers' Association, in relation to expediting or in routing their shipments to avoid embargoes which may be in effect on other lines.

PHILATHEA CLASS GATHERING

The Philathea Class of the Methodist church held its monthly social gathering on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Carrie Hickey, 21 members being present. The president, Mrs. Mildred Bickford, was unable to be present, owing to illness, and the vice president, Mrs. Ethel Riley, presided. The secretary, Mrs. Frances Congdon being absent, Mrs. Mary Mengel substituted in her place.

The Philathea Class has been asked to arrange for the Christmas celebration for the Methodist Sunday School to be held the Wednesday evening following Christmas. The following committee were chosen for the arrangements:

For Christmas tree and decorations—Miss Beatrice Parsons, assisted by Mrs. Edmund Pike, Mrs. Wallace Staples, Mrs. Mildred Bickford.

Candy and pop corn—Miss Carrie Hickey, Mrs. William Bridle.

Entertainment—Mrs. E. S. Tasker, Mrs. Annie Paymenter.

Santa Claus—Mrs. Mary Bridle.

Distribution of Gifts—Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Inez McIntire, Mrs. Isaacson, Mrs. William Bridle, Mrs. Mary Mengel.

The calling committee reported 26 calls made in the past month on "shut-ins." The committee on Thanksgiving baskets reported that much appreciation was shown from those who received them. The class plan to give out some Christmas baskets to the needy, and also some shoes and clothing. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social time enjoyed after the business session.

MOTHERS' CLUB TO HAVE MEETING

The Mothers' Club of the North Church will hold its monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the parish house. A social hour will be held and the members will bring their own Christmas sewing.

RADIO

VARYING INDUCTANCE OF THE TUNING COIL

How Different Forms of Winding Affect Reception of Long and Short Waves.

Tuning inductances for radio receiving circuits are made in a variety of forms. For short waves, the most commonly used form of inductance is the single layer solenoid, which is nothing more nor less than the common tuning coil, consisting of a single layer of wire wound upon a cylindrical form.

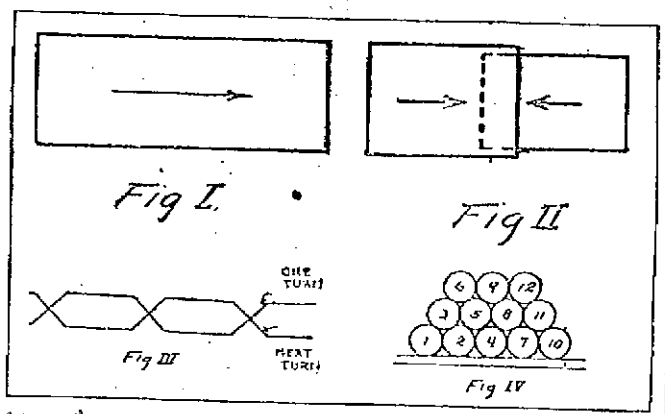
The method used to vary the inductance of a tuning coil is a slide which gives single turn variations or a switch which usually varies the inductance in groups of turns. For very close tuning where even the turn to turn variation is too coarse, a series or shunt in the circuit is necessary.

A closer variation of inductance can be procured by splitting the number of turns in two and winding one-half on a hollow cylindrical tube, and winding the second half on a slightly smaller cylindrical tube of such size that it can easily be slid into the first one. If now, the two coils are connected in series but in such a manner that their magnetic fields interlock, a continuous variation of inductance can be had by moving the coils with respect to each other. Fig. 1 represents the tuning coil—all of the magnetic field in the same direction. Fig. 2 represents approximately the same winding as was used in Fig. 1, but wound on two concentric forms. When the two coils of Fig. 2 are separated the fields of the two coils do not react and the inductance is the sum of the separate inductances of the two individual coils.

As the coils are brought closer together the field of one coil bucks down the coil and the total inductance is decreased. Finally when the winding on the inner cylinder is exactly under the winding on the outer cylinder, the inductance of one coil neutralizes that of the other and the resultant inductance, neglecting leakage, is zero.

A variometer functions exactly as did the two coils shown in Fig. 2. In a variometer, one coil rotates with respect to the other instead of sliding in and out as was the case in Fig. 2. If the windings of a variometer are on a cylindrical surface there will be a large amount of leakage, which decreases the ratio of maximum to minimum wave length to which the variometer will tune. A variometer with windings on a spherical surface and having a small mechanical clearance between rotor and stator will give minimum leakage. There is an excellent variometer on the market at the present time with a so-called "basket" winding. Not only are the windings on a spherical surface, but a cross-section of the winding (see Fig. 3) is such that the distributed capacity is reduced to a minimum. This is accomplished by separating adjacent turns and crossing them at right angles.

This same method of winding inductances is applied to the "spider web" coils. The change in wave length when using "spider web" coils is accomplished by the use of a series of shunt variable condensers since the coils are not as a rule provided with taps.



For longer wave lengths the bank wound coil is used to reduce the distributed capacity in winding multi-layer inductances. Fig. 4 shows how the turns of three-layer bank wound inductances are arranged.

The "duo-lateral" coil is an improvement over the bank wound coil. In a "duo-lateral" winding the conductors in two successive layers are not parallel as they are in the bank winding, but cross each other at an angle. In our estimation basket wound variometers with no shunted capacity are most efficient for short wave tuning while duo-lateral wound coils of large diameter, with a small amount of shunted capacity for tuning, are most efficient for long wave reception.

DESPONDENT, RUNS AMUCK

Providence, Dec. 18—Thomas Kelly becoming suddenly despondent, killed his brother-in-law, Thomas F. Jones, beat his niece, Mrs. Lillian Jones and killed himself here today. Kelly, according to the police ran amuck with two pieces of pipe, attacking Miss Jones and her brother-in-law while they were at the breakfast table. The body of Jones was so bruised and pierced with bullet holes that it was not certain whether he was beaten to death or shot. After Mrs Jones had gone down stairs, Kelly shot himself three times. Kelly had been brooding over the recent death of his sister.

HERR HAAB
President of the Swiss Confederation

LAUSANNE

Noted City of Switzerland Seat of the Near East Conference

By Frederick Donenbach

Lausanne, where Gibbon wrote the last three volumes of his "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," is a city of about 75,000 residents of which more than a fourth are citizens of other countries than Switzerland. It enjoys a commanding position on the terraced slopes of Mount Jorat and is often described as the city of five hills. Its ancient gothic Cathedral of Notre Dame, one of the finest mediaeval church edifices in the country, and stately old chateau are crowning features in the city's unusually beautiful outlines. Time-honored high gabled buildings line the steep narrow streets whose very names breathe the historical and classical atmosphere which has reigned in this picturesque town for many centuries. Gibbon, Rousseau, Voltaire, Jacques Necker, de Stael, these and other illustrious names greet our eyes as we wander through the city.

On the Place Montbenon is the Federal Palace of Justice, a beautiful building in the Italian Renaissance style, site of the Supreme Court of the Swiss Confederation.

Perhaps no other city is so well known to the Americans than is Lausanne. It has the largest colony of Americans than any other place in Switzerland and if asked the reason for it one might at first attribute it to the fascinating situation of the town and its reputation as an extremely healthy and pleasant residential place on the fair shores of Lake Geneva. Or one might assume that it is due to the scores of American mothers who bring their sons and daughters to the excellent schools of the city and the surrounding villages. Indeed, as an educational center Lausanne occupies an international rank; its university founded in 1537 and the numerous other public and private educational establishments of higher learning are attended by students of all nationalities. The meeting place of the American Colony is at the Anglo-American Assembly rooms, close to the English church.

The environs of Lausanne are unusually attractive and interesting. The many beautiful spots which are dotted along the shores of the Lake of Geneva or Lac Leman, as it is described in the region of Lausanne, such as Vevey of chocolate fame, Montreux with the Castle of Chillon, immortalized by Byron, are easily accessible by the numerous lake steamers.

Ouchy is the port of Lausanne—connected with the town by a funicular railway. It is here that Byron composed in 1817 his "Prisoner of Chillon." While the Near East Conference is being held at the "Castle of Ouchy" the delegates have taken quarters in the fine hotels on Ouchy and Lausanne for which both places are noted. The American observers, Richard Washburn Child, Ambassador to Italy and C. Grew, Minister to Switzerland with their staff are staying at the magnificent Hotel "Beau Rivage," so well known to thousands of American tourists. The peace conference was opened and is presided over by Herr Haab, President of the Swiss Confederation, a tall spare man of calm and dignified appearance. That Switzerland, a country that loves peace and justice so much that it has never been invaded, has been chosen for this conference, can be taken as a happy omen that the distinguished statesmen of the great nations involved are actuated by an ardent desire to make a just and lasting peace. The wireless station at Lausanne has been strengthened for this event to broadcast the good peace news for Christmas Day.

USEFUL "DON'TS" TO KNOW

Every One of Them Is Valuable Advice to the Amateur Radio Operator.

Don't fail to insulate the antenna.

Don't place the lightning switch indoors.

Don't listen-in during a thunderstorm.

Don't cause interference with other stations.

Don't try to use a loud speaker with a crystal set.

Don't run wires parallel in making up receiving sets.

Don't neglect to read everything available on radio.

Don't attach ends of antenna to power or telephone poles.

Don't connect a radio set direct to the electric light circuit.

Don't forget that tickler coils are not used with crystal detector sets.

Don't expect to get loud signals with a crystal detector set while using an indoor antenna.

Don't always blame the broadcasting station. It is sometimes the fault of your own apparatus.

Annealing Hard Wire.

If hard-drawn copper wire is used for connections in the rear of panels, it will break when bent or it is most sure to break upon removal from the fastening. The end of the wire may be annealed by heating it in a flame or by applying a coat of tin or solder. The wire can then be bent several times, without its breaking.

Help Tube With Magnet.

The sensitivity of an audion tube sometimes may be increased by placing a large horseshoe magnet in a certain position so that the poles of the magnet are on each side of the tube. This probably is due to the magnetic effect upon the moving electrons that flow across from the filament to the plate.

Length of Aerial Wires.

A single wire aerial is sufficient, if one at least 75 feet long can be put up. If the aerial is shorter, use two wires, taking the leading-in wire from the far end. If the aerial is to be only 50 feet or less over all, make it a four-wire one, and again take the leading-in wires from the far end.

Will Stop Jamming.

It is proposed to increase the number of available wave lengths for broadcasting by varying some of the many 360 meter stations by 25 or more meters.

RADIO SPARKS

Mr. Edison is credited with the discovery that a current existed between a lighted filament and a plate inclosed in a vacuum tube, the great principle involved in the successful amplifiers. More recent work by him in radio development has been prevented by the unfortunate failing of his hearing.

Chilo, a chimpanzee in the Milwaukee zoo, has a radio set especially built for him.

The United States forest service is receiving valuable assistance from radio in fighting forest fires. Through broadcasting information regarding the location of fires much valuable time is saved.

Eight broadcasting stations, costing a total of $1,000,000, will soon be built in Great Britain. The fans will be charged a "listener's fee" of approximately $2.50 a set in order to support the stations, which will be operated by the government.

One of the best-known radio "dead spots" is in the Red sea. Ships passing through this region can read no signals from the Aden station, but on leaving it, messages are picked up at full strength.

From the west comes a story of a method to use the telephone overhead wires for radio antenna. This cannot be done, however, with a grounded return circuit such as is found in farmers' lines.

Isn't it a helpless feeling when you have just a receiving set and you hear two of your friends giving you a pan over the air phones, and you sit and listen and listen, then listen some more, and you can't do a thing but keep on listening?

The large corporations find it profitable to provide entertainment by means of radio for their employees in isolated places. This may be the solution of keeping the hired girl on the job in the country.

Y. M. C. A. boys camping in Montana found enough specimens of galena near their campsite to equip several radio sets.

Warnings are again prevalent throughout the country regarding sellers of worthless radio stock.

BORAH SAYS EUROPE MUST QUIT ARMING

Declares it Must Show Sincerity Before Asking for Help

Washington, Dec. 17—A statement issued tonight by Senator William E. Borah makes clear that the contingent of irreconcilable senators, whose views Mr. Borah represents, will oppose the American governmental participation in the effort to adjust the German reparations question unless the European allied nations materially change their present attitude toward Germany.

More than that Mr. Borah would have the allies put their own houses in order before anything toward saving Europe from Chaos is attempted. In fact, he holds tha (these things, —which involve reduction of land forces and other measures— must be done before any basis can be established before the return of Europe to normal, economic and political conditions.

Senator Borah has considerable influence in the senate, particularly with regard to international affairs. While he could not count on the general following of the so-called irreconcilables if there were a prospect of ending the political and economic uncertainty in Europe, the views he expressed tonight are certain to find an echo among these senators who still cling to a policy of strict aloofness from European affairs.

RYE NOTES

Rye, Dec. 18.—The Rye Community Club held a well attended, interesting and profitable meeting in the vestry of Bethany church on Friday evening last Rev. George W. Clark of Hampton was the speaker of the evening and set forth in forcible and convincing language his conviction that the first business of America at the present time is to produce, not wealth or power, but men and women of the highest and finest type. The world is in dire need of such at the present to unite the scattered forces of good in the political and religious world and mass them against the forces of evil.

After the address the men plied the speaker with questions, enjoyed a social hour and refreshments. The following officers and committees were elected for the ensuing year:

President, George B. Rogers.

First vice president, James W. Flagg

Second vice president, Edgar J. Rand

Recording Secretary, Ernest A. Tucker.

Corresponding secretary, H. Russell Sawyer.

Treasurer, Willard A. Trefethen.

Auditor, Joseph O. Seavey.

Program committee, Eldred W. Marshall, Ernest J. Moulton, Walter G. Marston.

Fellowship committee, R. Jenness Locke, Chas. M. Rand, Wm. C. S. Philbrick, Chester D. Drake.

Membership committee, T. Herbert Perkins, Robert F. Hayes, Wilbert J. Little, Harry W. Vennard.

Finance committee, Abbott B. Drake, Chas. M. Remick, Edward S. Sawyer.

Refreshment committee, Ernest A. Tucker, T. Herbert Perkins, Edgar F. Harrows.

Publicity committee, James W. Flagg

Executive committee, The Officers and John F. Fraser, Willard M. Jenness, H. Russell Sawyer, Fred D. Parsons.

NEWINGTON

Newington, Dec. 18.—The wagons have now taken a back seat and sleighs are now in use and the jingle of the bells sound cheery.

Miss Emma Hawkridge has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Dixon at Fox Point farm recently.

Mr. Frank Tuck and wife who have resided in this town for about five years are moving to Stratham. The people regret their departure but wish them success and prosperity in their new home.

Mr. Cyrus Frink and wife were recent guests of her mother, Mrs. Lamprey of Portsmouth.

Mrs. Elizabeth Coleman was a visitor in Portsmouth for two days last week.

Mr. Everett and son Giles were visitors in Contoocook on Wednesday.

Miss May Frink was a visitor in Portsmouth two days last week.

A large number of members of the Piscataqua Grange attended the State Grange in Portsmouth this past week.

The schools were closed on Wednesday so as to give the teachers an opportunity to attend the State Grange convention.

The pupils of the seventh and eighth grade served the second lunch to several invited guests who were surprised to be served in such a manner and praised the cooks and also the teacher.

The work digging under the Town Hall progresses slowly on account of the cold weather but in a short time it is hoped that the furnace room will be ready for a new furnace.

All are glad to have Mrs. Greehough resume her position as librarian. Home duties compelled her to put in a substitute for a few months and Mrs. Beth Rand filled the temporary position in an able and efficient manner.

BIBLE CLASS MEETING

The C. C. Bible Class of the Court Street Christian church met at the church parsonage on Friday evening. After the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served. The class plans to have meetings in the homes of members during the winter.

CAMP SCHLEY ACTIVITIES

At the regular meeting of the Spanish War Veterans on Tuesday evening arrangements will be made for the installation of officers and entertainment for Jan. 1st. The committee on uniform will report and the committee on legislation has an interesting communication to present from the National Commander relating to pensions. The State Adjutant Harry E. Foster has received permission for the comrades living in Kittery to join the New Hampshire Veterans Association and will receive applications.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael S. Vaughan of Malden passed the week end with Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Conlon of Wibird street.

Sails To Find Out What Europe Teaches Children About World

Dr. Wallace W. Atwood, famous geographer, President of Clark University and Director of the Institute of International Information, has sailed for a tour of Europe where he will investigate the methods used in teaching school children about other countries of the world, to be reported to the public in Our World, in a series of articles. This work is preliminary to the world conference to be held by the National Educational Association in June, and Dr. Atwood's findings will be discussed by educators of many countries in an effort to formulate a policy as to how coming school generations of all countries may come to an understanding that will serve as a basis for world peace.

Officers Anderson and Murphy returned to duty today from their annual vacation and Marshal Hurley and Captain McCaffery start on their annual ten day vacation. Officer Hewitt will have the night station duty during the absence of Captain McCaffery.

GIVE YOUR AID IN GOOD CAUSE

The Salvation Army is making its annual appeal for Christmas dinners for the poor and winter relief.

The collection kettles are on the business streets and the Army lassies defy the cold and stand out in the open to give their aid to help the poor and needy. Are you going to refuse to do your part in this humanitarian work? Then do not pass the collection kettle by, but give your contribution.

Portsmouth, N. H., Monday, December 18, 1922.

Our Conference.

While the world is conferring on peace and how to settle its border and racial differences, we are today conferring on how to prevent crime and how to enforce our prohibitory law. Today the United States begins the greatest farce ever enacted in the world. It was a farce-comedy when it started, but it has drifted into a very serious drama. A few years ago, a few well meaning people were going about the country telling us how prohibition would settle all our criminal and social difficulties. Prohibition would do away with crime, was the loud promise they made to us.

One of the loudest in making that claim for prohibition was one Wheeler, self-appointed administrator of the souls of mankind. He knew just how to prevent crime; his prescription was prohibition. Today, that same Wheeler declares on the eve of the conference of governors that "crime must be checked or it will engulf us." His prescription has failed and he is ready to admit it. He knew at the time he said it would work that he was fooling or trying to fool the American public. He fooled no one except the politicians in congress who thought prohibition was the political vehicle by which they could perpetuate themselves in power.

The conference will produce nothing. On the eve of its assemblage, it is admitted by the most optimistic that it can do nothing. It must wait until the new governors take over the government of their states. Why? Would you not trust those who have had experience quicker than those who are inexperienced? Don't you think the men, who have seen the law break down under their most earnest efforts to uphold it, are capable of expressing some opinion?

Maine made a farce of prohibition for seventy-five years and Maine ought to be able to tell us something about it. She will not this time because Governor Baxter does not represent the sentiment of the state in this regard. Meanwhile, crime will go on and prohibition will be at fault.

One week from tonight is the time when we usually step on the family cat in trying to trim the Christmas tree in the dark.

If you want to be a multi-millionaire, buy a dollars' worth of rubles. You will get 25,000,000.

If you have only one thing to buy for Christmas, buy that early and get it off your mind.

Senator Walsh said something in his New York address yesterday.

POSTOFFICE ADDS EXTRA MEN FOR HOLIDAYS

The Christmas rush has started at the postoffice and Postmaster Conner and his staff are all sett to take care of the rush no matter how big it gets. In addition to the regulars, all of the substitutes and ten or more extra clerks will be used. Some of these reported for work this morning and the others will be called as the rush increases.

With the great bulk of parcel post matter now in the mails and especially during the Christmas holidays when 90 per cent of the gifts are shipped that way, it requires a lot of planning and some tall hustling on the part of the entire staff to keep things moving. Extra windows will be opened for mailing and the postmaster has but one caution—mail your stuff as early as possible, see that it is securely tied and addressed plainly. If you do your part, the packages will arrive on time.

NEWS OF THE NAVY AND NAVY YARDS

Completed His Work

R. M. Dunbar, library expert of Washington has completed the work of reclassifying the yard library and has left for Boston yard to engage in the same work on some of the ships tied up at the Charlestown station.

Change in Service Hour

The yard Chaplain has found it necessary to change the hour of Sunday religious back to the morning hour 10.30 a. m. The services had lately been arranged for 4 p. m.

Placed on Retired List

Chief Boatswain Owen T. Hurdle, a resident of Kittery, was placed on the retired list with the rank of lieutenant on Friday, after 32 years of faithful service. Mr. Hurdle is a native of Brooklyn but has made his home in Kittery since he was assigned to the local yard in 1910. He enlisted as an apprentice boy in 1889 on the old receiving ship Dale at Washington but made his first sea cruise on the old Jamestown. He served on the U. S. S. Amphitrite during the Spanish war and on convoy duty during the world war. He was twice stationed in the local yard, the first period being from 1912 to 1914, and the second from 1919 to 1922. His last sea duty was on the mine layer Shawmut. He retires with a most excellent record and with the best wishes of a score of friends in and out of the navy. He will continue to reside in Kittery where he is conducting a fine farm which he purchased a few years ago.

Board Working Again.

The official wage board of the yard reconvened on Sat. following the order received recently from the navy department.

Surprise Party.

Fourteen employes of the pattern shop gave their former foreman, John D. Medcalf, a surprise at his home on Autumn street Friday evening, where they passed a very pleasant session with music and refreshments. Just before their departure Mr. Medcalf was presented with a large turkey, a gift from the men he had so long labored with in Building 95.

Orders Mixed Up.

Chief Carpenter's Mate C. A. Florer from the receiving ship at Hampton Roads, reported at the yard on Sat. for duty on the tug Osceola, and found the ship had been out of commission for several weeks. His orders were likely mixed up in some way.

Home for Holidays

Miss Helen P. McCarthy, a former stenographer in the yard dispensary, now employed in Washington, is passing the holiday season at her home in Dover.

Flu on the Florida

A mild epidemic of influenza on the battleship Florida has spread to other ships at the Charlestown yard. Thirty cases are listed on the battleship, 16 of which have been sent to the hospital at Chelsea.

Compliments Officers and Men

The commanding officer of the submarine S-49 Lieut. Comdr. I. C. Sowell, has sent a letter to the commandant of the local yard in which he compliments the officers and civilian force for the excellent work performed on the ship while at this port. He makes special mention of the manner in which the yard workmen cooperated with the ship's crew in all work which was undertaken by the crew. In fact the commander of the S-49 is highly pleased with everything as far as the local yard and the employes is concerned. The ship sailed from here on Nov. 21. The letter is dated New York.

Docking Orders

The U. S. S. Beaver was not floated from the dry dock until today. The submarine S-46 was put in the basin at noon.

MUSICAL SERVICE AT NORTH CHURCH

An orchestra service was held at the North Church on Sunday evening. Owing to the bad weather the attendance was not equal to what it otherwise would have been but the service was listened to with deep appreciation by all those who were in the congregation. The large orchestra combined with the pipe organ under the direction of Alex Billbruck, organist of the North Church, gave a program from distinguished composers. The regular church quartette assisted in the service. The pastor, Rev. Lucius H. Thayer, gave a short address.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

The annual Christmas tree and entertainment of the Middle Street Baptist Sunday School will be held on Tuesday at 3.45 p. m. in the chapel. A Christmas play entitled, "Trouble in Santa Claus Land" will be presented. Santa Claus and Mrs. Santa will be there. This celebration is for all the children of the Sunday school from the Cradle Roll to the Junior Department.

On Tuesday evening the annual Christmas tree for the older classes of the Sunday school and the whole parish will be held. The same play will be repeated in the evening. All who come then will bring 10 cent gifts, these to be labeled and distributed to add to the merriment of the evening.

James Lee

The funeral of James Lee was held this morning at eight-thirty o'clock from the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The pastor, Rev. D. Alex Sullivan, celebrated high mass of requiem. Interment was in Calvary cemetery. Rev. Father O'Connell had charge of the committal service at the grave. The bearers were John J. McCarthy, James Lee, Michael Chandler and William Linchey. William P. Miskell had charge of the funeral arrangements.

EIGHT INCHES OF SNOW IN SUNDAY STORM

The storm of Sunday practically assures a White Christmas for the heaviest fall of snow of the winter was recorded, and it will take several rainy days to do away with it.

The storm of Sunday started shortly after five o'clock Sunday morning and there was a steady fall of snow until the evening, on an average of seven to eight inches fell. There was very little wind and the snow did not drift at all so that the electric roads were able to keep up their service, if a little off time.

Supt. David Smith had his crew of men out with the sidewalk plows during the afternoon and later the street plows in front of the big city trucks cleared the main streets so that automobiles could be run. A good part of the city was done during the afternoon and evening and the rest completed today, along with some of the state roads. It is planned to keep open the state roads into the city all of the winter.

Announcement That Food Prices Have Gone Up Will Bring Story

HOOVER . . . . . w

Washington, Dec. 17—Both retail and wholesale food prices increased two per cen tor more during November, according to figures made public today by the department of labor. Notwithstanding the increase, the department said there was a decrease of 5 per cent for the year ending November 15 in retail food prices, while wholesale food prices increased about 2 1-2 percent during the year.

As compared with 1913 retail food costs in November were given as 66 per cent higher in Richmond; 54 per cent in Boston, Buffalo, New York, Providence and Washington; 51 per cent in Scranton; 50 per cent in Baltimore; 49 per cent in Fall River and Philadelphia; 47 per cent in Detroit, Manchester, N. H., Newark, N. J., and New Haven; 46 per cent in Chicago and Pittsburgh; 45 per cent in Birmingham; 44 per cent in Charleston, S. C., Dallas, Texas, Milwaukee and San Francisco; 43 per cent in Atlanta and St. Louis; 42 per cent in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Minneapolis; 41 per cent in New Orleans; 39 per cent in Jacksonville, Omaha and Seattle; 38 per cent in Kansas City; 37 per cent in Indianapolis and Little Rock; 35 per cent in Louisville and Portland, Oregon.; 33 per cent in Denver and Memphis, and 25 per cent in Salt Lake City.

The trend of wholesale prices of commodities such as farm products, textiles, metals, building materials, chemicals and house furnishing goods, was upward during November to the extent of 1 1-2 per cent. Farm products also led for the year with an increase of 18 1-4 per cent. Chemicals alone were cheaper in November of this year as compared with the same month last year.

How Much Should One Give For Christmas?

Obviously, that all depends upon your affection for the recipient of the gift. For those you love—your wife, your mother, your family—no gift can be too fine. Why not make this Christmas stand out from among all others by giving something for the home—something that gives comfort and pleasure throughout the years to come.

LAUSANNE

Noted City of Switzerland Seat of the Near East Conference

By Frederick Doerenbach

Lausanne, where Gibbon wrote the last three volumes of his "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," is a city of about 75,000 residents of which more than a fourth are citizens of other countries than Switzerland. It enjoys a commanding position on the terraced slopes of Mount Jorat and is often described as the city of five hills. Its ancient gothic Cathedral of Notre Dame, one of the finest mediaeval church edifices in the country, and stately old chateau are crowning features in the city's unusually beautiful outlines. Time-honored high gabled buildings line the steep narrow streets whose very names breathe the historical and classical atmosphere which has reigned in this picturesque town for many centuries. Gibbon, Rousseau, Voltaire, Jacques Necker, de Stael, these and other illustrious names greet our eyes as we wander through the city.

On the Place Montbenon is the Federal Palace of Justice, a beautiful building in the Italian Renaissance style, site of the Supreme Court of the Swiss Confederation.

Perhaps no other city is so well known to the Americans than is Lausanne. It has the largest colony of Americans than any other place in Switzerland and if asked the reason for it one might at first attribute it to the fascinating situation of the town and its reputation as an extremely healthy and pleasant residential place on the fair shores of Lake Geneva. Or one might assume that it is due to the scores of American mothers who bring their sons and daughters to the excellent schools of the city and the surrounding villages. Indeed, as an educational center Lausanne occupies an international rank; its university founded in 1537 and the numerous other public and private educational establishments of higher learning are attended by students of all nationalities. The meeting place of the American Colony is at the Anglo-American Assembly rooms, close to the English church.

The environs of Lausanne are unusually attractive and interesting. The many beautiful spots which are dotted along the shores of the Lake of Geneva or Lac Leman, as it is described in the region of Lausanne, such as Vevey of chocolate fame, Montreux with the Castle of Chillon, immortalized by Byron, are easily accessible by the numerous lake steamers.

Ouchy is the port of Lausanne—connected with the town by a funicular railway. It is here that Byron composed in 1817 his "Prisoner of Chillon." While the Near East Conference is being held at the "Castle of Ouchy" the delegates have taken quarters in the fine hotels on Ouchy and Lausanne for which both places are noted. The American observers, Richard Washburn Child, Ambassador to Italy and C. Grew, Minister to Switzerland with their staff are staying at the magnificent Hotel "Beau Rivage," so well known to thousands of American tourists. The peace conference was opened and is presided over by Herr Haab, President of the Swiss Confederation, a tall spare man of calm and dignified appearance. That Switzerland, a country that loves peace and justice so much that it has never been invaded, has been chosen for this conference, can be taken as a happy omen that the distinguished statesmen of the great nations involved are actuated by an ardent desire to make a just and lasting peace. The wireless station at Lausanne has been strengthened for this event to broadcast the good peace news for Christmas Day.

FOR THE COOK

Apples en Casserole

Use sweet greenings and remove the core, but do not peel. Fill the cavity with chopped dates from which the pits have been removed. Pack in the casserole and add about 1-3 cup of water. Bake in a moderate oven 3-4 of an hour. Delicious either with or without cream and sugar.

Apple Lemon Pie

If any one tried this way of making this pie they would not want the plain apple pie. You make a rich shell, put in the filling. 2 large apples grated, grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, 1 measuring cup of sugar, the yolk of 1 egg. When cold, beat as many whites of eggs as you can spare with spoons of powdered sugar, one for each egg, return to oven to just brown.

Salad

This salad is to be arranged individually and for each service the following ingredients will be needed:

3 heart leaves of lettuce.
6 white grapes, seeded.
1-4 cup celery, cut into small pieces.
1-2 apple, pared, and cut into thin slices.
1-2 tomato, cut into eighths.
2 tablespoons oil.
1 teaspoon vinegar
1-4 teaspoon sugar
1-8 teaspoon pepper.

Mix white grapes, apple and celery. Mix oil, vinegar, salt, sugar and pepper. Pour over the fruits, separately, and serve in lettuce leaves. Pass mayonnaise. An attractive arrangement is to put the grapes, celery and apple mixture into one lettuce leaf, the tomatoes in a second, and peppers in the third. Arrange these on plate, having the stems of the leaves toward center. In this center place a spoonful of mayonnaise.

TREATY DRAFT ABOUT READY

Lausanne, Dec. 17—The labors of the Lausanne conference have advanced so far that already the official scribes have begun their task of writing out the preliminary drafts of the treaty. This document will cover the general lines of the treaty and is being prepared so as to have in concrete form those problems which already have been solved and also to have the preliminary signatures of all parties.

There is a feeling that too much time is being wasted on secondary questions in the sub commissions and that the big aim of the conference is in danger of being lost sight of during the interminable discussions, often petty in nature. Speed is now the watchword at Lausanne.

The straits problem has practically been settled; great progress has been made on the question of minorities, and the general economi cand financial subjects have found their essential solutions. The persistent dragging along of several thorny points, such as the deportation of the Greek patriarch, the Mosul oil dispute and the difficulty over foreign tribunals in Turkey, is checking the forward swing of the conference.

Love Handed Down

By ELLA SAUNDERS

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Mother, I've got such a piece of news for you!" Kitty Blaine, who had arrived home for her two weeks' vacation three minutes before, stood facing her pretty mother in the doorway of their home. "You remember that Mr. Croft, who used to be a beau of yours, that you gave me a letter to? Well, he wants to marry me!"

Mrs. Blaine looked at her daughter with a little sense of shock. It seemed only yesterday that Eddie Croft and she had strolled under those same apple trees, accepted lovers. Then had come the quarrel about a tride, they had drifted apart, and had heard nothing of each other for years.

It was only a few months before that they had again come into touch by one of those little coincidences that seem so strange, yet are so common. Eddie Croft had answered a letter of Edna Blaine's addressed to the corporation which he served, regarding a position for her daughter, and had promised to do his best for her.

"And have you accepted him, dear?" the mother asked.

"Yes, of course," answered Kitty promptly. "Why, don't you know he's Mr. Roger's right hand man in the corporation? He must be as rich as Croesus. And he told me"—Kitty giggled—"that he hadn't married all these years because he never met any one he cared for as he did you, until he saw me, and that I was your very image at twenty."

"And you care for him, Kitty?" The mother put her hands on the girl's shoulders and looked at her anxiously.

"Care for him?" Kitty wrinkled her pretty brows and laughed. "Well, I suppose it's possible to care for any one if you make up your mind to, isn't it?" she answered. "Of course, he's forty-eight."

Edna Blaine sighed. Girls were different from what they had been in her young days. Then love was everything—now it was money that counted. They wanted a good time from the start. She felt a pang for Kitty, and then another for Eddie—perhaps one for the past as well.

"And he's coming down on Saturday to tell you about it," Kitty said.

Edna Blaine sighed again. Somehow she did not quite feel like seeing Eddie after all these years. And her heart was troubled for both of them.

What sort of wife would Kitty make for Eddie—Kitty, irresponsible, feather-headed, and again renewing her long-standing flirtation with Jim Baker, who lived at the end of the street, and was in the band?

"Mother, Jim's promised to take me out in his car tomorrow."

"My dear, do you think it quite right for you to go about with Jim, under the circumstances?"

"Oh, my dear mother, do please remember that this is the twentieth century and not the nineteenth," said Kitty.

Edna Blaine felt lost and bewildered. Especially on the Saturday afternoon, when Eddie came down, and Kitty was away—with Jim, she suspected. The sight of Eddie was a shock, too. They walked up from the station together, and she would not have known him in the bronzed, stalwart man who strode beside her, radiating protection somehow; she could hardly keep from crying.

"Well, Edna?" Then, as he faced her inside the house the tears did come. It was awkward; but not so awkward as when Kitty returned. It was a very mournful evening, and Edna saw Eddie glancing from her to Kitty in a puzzled way.

He was staying over Sunday, and Edna gasped when Kitty calmly pleaded an appointment for the afternoon.

"You see, I didn't know you were staying over," she explained.

Eddie took Edna for a country walk. The spell of the past was upon both of them, they were very silent as they turned homeward in the evening.

"I hope you and Kitty will be happy, Eddie," said Edna softly.

He did not answer, and she dared not look at his face.

Suddenly they heard voices in the darkness on the other side of the elms that bordered the road.

"But, Jim, I—you mustn't. You know I'm engaged."

"Do you love him, Kitty? If you don't, you're sinning against your better nature in marrying him. Do you love him? Answer me!"

"No!" came the almost inaudible whisper. "It's always been you, Jim."

The voices died away. There was the faint sound of pacing footsteps—lovers' footsteps. Eddie turned to Edna.

"And it's always been you, Edna," he said. "It was the part of you I saw in her. Now it's you forever."

Mother Didn't Reply.

Bobby, four years old, accompanied his mother to a woman's club meeting one afternoon, where the women, very tastefully gowned, hatted and veiled, discussed the affairs of their organization for two hours. On the way home Bobby said: "Mother, why don't you buy a veil and cover up your face and look pretty?"

Force of Bad Example.

P. P. A. started it and now he's got us doing it. Perpend! "Alack!" sighed the liquor-likker with a lack o' liere, "I haven't a lick o' liquor in my locker."—Boston Evening Transcript.

REV. G. B. RILEY IS INSTALLED

Local Pastors Attend Services at the Church

The installation of Rev. George Bertie Riley as pastor of the People's Baptist Church of this city, took place on Sunday afternoon at three-thirty o'clock in the church on Pearl street. Despite the severe storm there was a good sized audience, including not only members of the congregation, but a good number of other citizens.

The following was the order of service:

Prelude
Hymn Congregation
Invocation Rev. Edwin S. Tasker
Music, Open the Gates of the Temple ..... Schnecker
Scripture Reading Rev. Mr. Denton
Hymn Congregation
Introduction of Speaker,
Rev. Isaac Higginbotham, Master of Ceremonies.
Installation Oration
Rev. Cassius A. Ward, D. D.
Music, Thank God for the Garden.... ..... Lorenze
Offertory
Benediction Rev. A. J. Cardall

Rev. Lucius H. Thayer of the North Church, Rev. Isaac Higginbotham of the Middle Street Baptist church, Rev. Edwin S. Tasker D. D., of the Methodist church, Rev. Alfred J. Cardall of the Universalist church and Rev. J. William Denton of the Advent church were the local clergymen present.

The exercises opened with music, followed by a hymn sung by choir and congregation. The invocation was given by Rev. E. S. Tasker. Rev. Isaac Higginbotham brought the greetings of the local churches and the Ministerial Association of this city and vicinity and he referred to the able Christian work that had been done by men of the colored race.

Rev. Cassius A. Ward, D. D., pastor of the Ebenezer Church of Boston, the largest colored church in New England, gave the installatory address which was both eloquent and inspirational. The theme of his address was "Man's Highest Responsibility" and the text Ezekiel XXXIII-7, "So thou, O son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth and warn them from me."

Dr. Ward began by saying he was in Portsmouth several years ago when he came to deliver the address at the Emancipation celebration and he again came to deliver the installation sermon when the late Rev. John L. Davis was installed pastor. He said he was glad to come again and also to know that there were brave men and women who did not let the storm keep them from attending the service.

Dr. Ward referred to the fine fellowship between the Rev. Mr. Riley and the local pastors and this was much appreciated by the new pastor. Dr. Ward said all were children of a common father and trying to work together to build up the kingdom. He said if a man believes in Jesus Christ there is no race question.

Dr. Ward was graduated with honors from the Newton Theological Seminary, winning high honors in Greek and Arabic. He gave a strong message and his audience listened attentively to its close.

Rev. Mr. Higginbotham, as he presented the church Bible to the new pastor, Rev. Mr. Riley, said it should be the inspiration of his life, the Bible being the written word of God. A prayer of consecreration by Rev. Mr. Higginbotham followed and a musical selection. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Alfred J. Cardall.

The newly installed pastor took up his work in this city the first Sunday in June and has made good progress in his work. When he came here he found an indebtedness of about $2500 for current expenses of the church and on the parsonage. Since that time he has reduced the debt to the amount of about $600, and some repairs have been made to church property. The church membership has increased and he has conducted one baptism and will soon have another baptismal service. Mr. Riley came here from Ohio and is an earnest worker and the church will undoubtedly increase in membership and strength under his leadership.

This evening at seven-thirty o'clock the installatory program will continue at the People's church. The exercises will open with the National Anthem, followed by the invocation by Rev. A. M. Hainer. Mayor F. W. Hartford will give the "Welcome to the City," Rev. Lucius H. Thayer will welcome the new pastor here in behalf of the Ministerial Circle. Addresses will be given by Rev. William Safford Jones, Mrs. Mary I. Wood, Mayor-elect Samuel Ladd and others.

All are cordially invited to the exercises in the church. Following this program a banquet will be served in the church vestry for which invitations have been given to about 125 guests, including representative Portsmouth citizens. Admission to the banquet is by ticket.

KITTERY POINT

Kittery Point, Dec. 15—The first second and third grades of the Mitchell school, Mrs. Hattie Cummings, teacher, enjoyed a Christmas tree and entertainment on Friday afternoon. Many of the parents and friends of the little pupils were present and thoroughly enjoyed the pleasant occasion. The following program was given:

Song—Christmas Time—School.
Lord's prayer.
Christmas Greeting—Muriel Dorr.
Recitation—Hannah Goodwin.
Recitation—Paul Tobey.
Recitation—Ines Fuller.
Recitation—Charles Perry.
Anvil Song—Boys.
Recitation—Helen Tobey.
Recitation—Norman Miles.
Song—Snowakes—Doris Lewis.
Recitation—Maurice Carlson.
Recitation—Eleanor Anderson.
Song—Winter—School.
Recitation—Ethelyn Brown.
Recitation—Evan Fiske.
Recitation—Pauline Tobey.
Recitation—Douglas Brown.
Recitation—Eleanor Tibbetts.
Recitation—Elroy Moulton.
Song—Heigho—School.
Recitation—Frances Nelson.
Recitation—Dorothy Fletcher.
Recitation—Dorothy Colby.
Recitation—Phyllis Fuller.
Exercise—Three Boys.
Song—Wreaths, Evergreen—School.
Exercise—Mrs. Santa Claus.
Song—Upon the House Top—School

The Christmas tree presented a handsome sight which was heavily laden with gifts. Each child received a present, and also the teacher was well remembered by the scholars. The room was attractively decorated with evergreen and Christmas colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis West have closed their bungalow here and left for Boston today. On Wednesday Mr. West will leave for Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. West will remain in Boston with friends and will join her husband later on. Our Kittery Point friends will be greatly missed. Mrs. West, who has been in our midst for the past year has made many friends, and it is with much regret we see them leave town.

The Kittery Point Fire Company will hold a meeting at the fire house this evening.

Mrs. Clarence Colby of the Norton road is visiting relatives in Roxbury, Mass., for a few days.

Mrs. Jacob Fletcher and daughter Geraldine are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lytle of Portsmouth.

James Trefethen left for Boston today where he will join Mrs. Trefethen and daughter Jane. They will leave on Wednesday for Onterio, Calif., which is about 30 miles from Los Angeles. They have the best wishes of many friends here for a pleasant journey.

Miss J. C. Walker of Shaowil, Fukien, China, arrived from Boston this forenoon to pass the week end as the guest of Rev. and Mrs. John Graham at the Congregational parsonage at Kittery Point. Miss Walker comes from the missionary station in that country where one of the pastor's daughters is doing missionary work. She will attend the morning service and probably speak at that time.

Miss Walker is the daughter of the late Rev. J. E. Walker, D. D., an dwas born in China. Her father was a Congregational minister and did missionary work in China for 50 years. After doing so much able missionary work in China he was on the return home to this country and died on the trip.

LOCAL BOWLING TEAMS ACTIVE

Two of Them Hunting For Matches With Dover

Bowling has taken quite a spurt lately and local teams are active. According to the Dover Democrat sport writer the City Five of Portsmouth has not passed out from the sporting world. The Dover writer says that Jack Fenton of the Bowlaway has been in communication with Dexter of Portsmouth, who wants a series with Dover.

Another local team known as the West End Five headed by Thomas Loughlin also wants to meet Dover on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. If Manager Humphreys of the new Portsmouth team should throw a challenge at Dover, Manager Fenton would have his hands full looking after the correspondence with Portsmouth teams whether he succeeds in arranging a match or not.

ELIOT

The Congregational Church will have a supper and sale in the vestry on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Shapleigh, and Mrs. E. Chapin Hanscom of Eliot and Mrs. Emily Pierce of North Kittery left last week for St. Petersburg, Fla., to pass the winter.

Postmaster Conner is adding extra men to his regular force to speed up the Christmas rush. With the bulk of the shipping now through the parcel post, it requires a number of extra hands to keep up.

SPOKE IN PRAISE OF HOSPITALITY

State Secretary George R. Drake of the New Hampshire State Grange has today given out his report on the 49th annual session in this city and speaks in praise of Portsmouth's hospitality.

His report is as follows:

"The 49th annual session of the State Grange last week at Portsmouth was a gratifying success. There was a rain storm on the opening day and a snow storm at the closing. The seaport city is far from the center of the Granite States, there was no election attraction, Charles W. Varney being re-elected a member of the executive committee for three years, yet it is a noteworthy fact that the attendance of officers and voting members was only 26 less than that at Concord last year.

Portsmouth's Chamber of Commerce which is a live wire, has aptly named the city "The Place of the Open Door" and its hospitality and kind attentions verified the claim. The welcome extended to the visitors on Monday evening was so hearty and its acceptance so general that the attendance far exceeded the seating capacity of the hall.

The reports of the officers and the reports of the committees stated the position of the grange on the live questions of the day.

The music at the public meeting was fine, the addresses were able, but no other participant in the evening's entertainment was so popular with the large audience as the four readings given in response to encores, by Barbara F. Varney who was born the day of a special state meeting in Rochester seven years ago.

The excellent ritualistic work in the fifth degree by Suncook Valley Pomona and that in the second by Piscataqua of Newington were appreciated. The sixth degree class of 279 exceeded that at Concord, the beautiful Flora's court typifying a flower harvest, won universal admiration and the ceremonies were very impressive.

The attendance of Past Master and Mrs. Richard Patten, former state and national Ceres, Past Secretary and Mrs Hutchinson and Past Lecturer Metcalf increased the interest in the session.

The State Grange again went on record as favoring just and equitable taxation; the enforcement of the prohibition laws and in opposition to the manufacture and sale of beers and light wines; opposed the enactment of laws fixing the maximum hours of a day's labor; approved the work of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts and pledged continuel support; advocated laws prohibiting the manufacture and sale of "filled" milk; cooperation among farmers; was opposed to bonus for soldiers; postponed action on making an increase of dues until a committee of investigation reports at the next annual meeting and was enthusiastic in the observance of the Golden Jubilee of the organization of the State Grange at the next annual session. Appreciation of the courtesies extended by Portsmouth and her citizens in general, Strawberry Bank Grange and the Chamber of Commerce were heartily given.

The invitation from the Chamber of Commerce to hold the fiftieth annual session in Manchester, was heartily favored and the executive committee will take definite action in the matter at the usual time."

Reduce Your Fat Without Dieting

Years ago the formula for fat reduction was diet—exercise. Today it is: Take Marmola Prescription Tablets. Friends tell friends—these friends tell others. They eat substantial food, live as they like and still reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists the world over at one dollar for a case, or if you prefer you can order direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY VETERANS FOREIGN WARS

The following is the correct list of officers elected by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at their meeting held Friday evening: Commander, J. R. Baird; senior vice commander, T. F. Morrissey; junior vice commander, Morris M. Herman; chaplain, E. J. Holmes; officer of day, P. Petroni; quartermaster, F. C. Malley; surgeon, Dr. W. P. Clare; trustee for eighteen months, H. Liffchult; one year, M. M. Herman; six months, F. Vinciquara.

Many people use Baker's Certified Flavoring Extracts not only because they are absolutely pure, but also because their strength makes them economical.

The Dartmouth club has sent out its invitations for the annual dancing assembly at the Rockingham Hotel on Friday evening of this week.

SERVICE LEAGUE PLAY 2 MATCHES

There will be two matches in the Service League at the State Armory this week. This evening the U. S. S. Beaver team will play the Naval Prison and the Marine Barracks will play the National Guard. Every team in the league is putting in some hard practice and the games this evening should be fast. There is a great amount of excitement over the games and the rooting is lively to say the least. Two more games will be played on Wednesday.

TO FLOAT DRAW INTO POSITION ON WEDNESDAY

The draw span of the Memorial Bridge will be floated down to the bridge at high water on Wednesday if weather conditions are favorable.

Practically everything is in readiness for the work, other than some false work that is being placed under the draw section in preparation for the floating process. Enough concrete has been poured into the two counter weight boxes on both towers to balance the draw as it is now, and more will be added as the load on the draw becomes greater by the addition of the operating machinery.

The steel work on both towers is finished other than such work as will be in order after the draw is in place. The work of floating the draw into place will require a nicety of judgment, as there is of course only a very little leeway, not more than an inch or two.

While the American Bridge Company have been granted until January 2 to block the river, it is expected that barring accident, the draw will be ready to operate long before that time.

MOTHER AND BABY STILL IN JAIL

Friends Working to Get Bail.—Woman Was Former Resident Here

Portsmouth people are doing much to secure bail for Mrs. Laura Epifini, who formerly lived on Russell street in this city and who is now confined to the Portsmouth jail to await high court on a charge of assault on Miss Yvonne Vachon at Somersworth. Mrs. Epifini has with her a baby about three weeks old and her relatives and friends here are anxious to bring about her release until the term of superior court. It is understood that Judge Allen has considered the application of her attorney and reduced her bail to $500.

B. C. BARN DANCE TOMORROW NIGHT

No chance of disappointment for the merrimakers at Freeman's Hall tomorrow night, with 20 individual features on the program.

"Billie" Murphy, King of Rube Comedians, will lead the fun-makers with his original monologues, songs and dances. Mr. Murphy hails from a Boston booking agency.

Peggy Hopkins of vaudeville fame, will assist with her selection of character and novelty songs. Miss Hopkins is a favorite with thousands of theatre patrons in the east.

Positively one of the best musical attractions playing here this year in "Chickie" Burke's famous Rube Band of Lynn. Don't miss the pie eating and milk drinking contests. 8 other comedy contests with prizes. Come early. Everybody's going.

WELL KNOWN BUSINESS MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Edward Herbert Simpson, one of Portsmouth's well known and most highly esteemed business men, died at his home, 87 Cabot street, early Saturday evening of heart trouble after an illness of but two days.

Mr. Simpson was a native and life long resident of this city and the son of the late Charles Edward and Esther (Roberts) Simpson. He was born October 15, 1857. He and his brother, Augustus P. Simpson, succeeded their father in the clothing business at No. 2 Bow street and continued to conduct the business successfully at this stand.

He is survived by his wife; two sons Shirley B. and Manning P.; a brother, Augustus P. and three sisters, the Misses Mary H., Martha L. and Maude B. Simpson, all of this city.

Mr. Simpson was a man of quiet disposition; devoted to his home and family and held in respect by all. He had many friends and the news of his death is not only a severe blow to his family but he will be much missed by all his associates.

The funeral services will be held from his late home, 87 Cabot street on Tuesday forenoon at eleven o'clock. Friends invited.

CHATS WITH YOUR GAS MAN

THE number of persons who own securities of public service companies or who have an indirect financial interest in such securities by reason of bank deposits and insurance policies, rank second only to the holders of Liberty Bonds.

During 1921, approximately 570,000 shares of stock were sold by 84 public service companies direct to their customers and employees. In addition, two billion dollars of the assets of life insurance companies is invested in companies which furnish the public with the vital services of gas, electric light, transportation and telephone communication.

Real public ownership of the utilities that serve the nation is with us. It is the logical ownership—an ownership of an essential industry by its customers and employes.

Here is a movement of national proportions that is promoting thrift, combating "blue sky" stock swindlers, and educating our people to the fundamentals of sound investment.

Make This a Ford Christmas

This Christmas morning drive a Ford car up to your door. Make it the merriest and happiest of Christmas days.

And in the days that follow, your Ford car will be the means of more pleasures and conveniences to you and your family, than you have ever known before.

Your Ford car will be a real asset to your home and to your business. The investment is so small, yet the returns in real utility and genuine enjoyment so great, that the benefits can not be over-estimated.

Make up your mind today to give a Ford car this Christmas. Then come in, or call us up. We'll give you all the facts and explain our easy terms plan if you prefer to purchase that way.

But, remember, your order should be placed at once for prompt delivery. Act Now!

We extend to you and yours the Season's Greetings.
